- I finished the BSc and the MSc in Physics by the University of Cantabria located in Santander, Spain, in 1997 and the PhD, by the same university, in 2002. During that period, I worked in the Statistical Physics group of IFCA. After the PhD, I did a first postdoc in Oporto (Portugal) at the Centro de Fisica do Porto, a center belonging to the University of Porto, and a second one in Atlanta (Georgia, USA) at the Physics Department of Emory University. Then, for four years, I have been a research scientist at the ISI Foundation in Turin, Italy. Nowadays, I am a Research Professor (Profesor de Investigación) of the Spanish National Research Council CSIC working at the IFISC (Insitute for Cross-Disciplinary Physics and Complex Systems) in Palma de Mallorca, Spain. My research lies in the area of Physics of Complex Systems and in particular in the application of networks to sociotechnical systems. I have authored more than 100 scientific papers, cited over 10000 times.
